The Report

The first four people met up at Buffalo Wild Wings and had a beer or two prior to the meal of a lifetime that was to follow. The President announced in advance that this dinner was going to be completely different than all other meetings, we were trying something new. Yes, I forgot the damn jacket. There was a hollow feeling through out the entire evening.

The team left the bar and headed to the meal. As soon as the President walked through the front door, he was greeted with a big "Rob, Curry Club is here". Mike the owner instantly recognized the club and treated us with the respect this club deserves. We were given a premium table in an isolated area the kept us away from the commoners in the rest of the establishment.

Special thanks goes to member Duane who purchased the chef sampler appetizer for the entire table. We are extremely grateful for his gift as the food was amazing. Mandatory shorba was had by most at the table, some even to go. Beers were ordered and toasts were completed. The meals came to the table and were eating quickly as the food was amazing. The evening ended with a picture and a group hug.

Next President: Tyson Tozier

The Good

- Great food
- Instant recognition of the importance of our group
- Simply one of the best Indian restaurants in the world

The Bad

- Nothing

The Ugly

- It is a bit expensive but sooooo worth it.
